

Applied Public Health Chair

Clearing Pathways to Health Equity

Dr. Janet Smylie

KEY PARTNERS

Native Women’s Association of Canada | National Collaborating Centre for Aboriginal Health | National Association of Friendship Centres | Native Youth Sexual Health Network | Indigenous Physicians Association of Canada | Aboriginal Nurses Association Canada | First Nations Health & Social Secretariat of Manitoba | First Nations Health Authority
Aboriginal Health Research Network

Main Goal

To demonstrate Indigenous methods of health intervention research. This goal will be achieved by moving Indigenous ways of knowing and doing - from the margins to the centre of implementation science.

#1

Case studies nested within ongoing health intervention studies with Indigenous populations develop

tuberculosis care
(with Dr. Long)

implement

youth mental health promotion & suicide prevention (with Native Youth Sexual Health Network)

analyze maternal child oral health care

(with Dr. Lawrence)

document

#2

Forum for Indigenous Implementation Research & Evaluation (FIIRE)

practice widely & evaluate assessment & surveillance development & evaluation

understanding causes & contexts

FIIRE Network

FIIRE is a national knowledge network dedicated to Indigenizing public health intervention research and evaluation.

Will produce FOUR consensus papers on best practices for...

- 1 Indigenous health assessments as well as governance and management of health information.
- 2 Identifying and addressing Indigenous determinants of health.
- 3 Developing Indigenous health services and evaluating effectiveness.
- 4 Applying what works in other and diverse Indigenous contexts.