

Our Health Counts Thunder Bay

An inclusive community-driven health survey for Indigenous peoples of Thunder Bay

Adult Culture and Identity

Involvement in cultural practices and traditions are key elements of Indigenous health and wellbeing. The Indian Act, residential school system, Sixties Scoop and other forms of cultural oppression have attempted to destroy Indigenous cultural practices and languages.¹ Despite ongoing historical traumas, Indigenous peoples have maintained many traditional practices. Among Indigenous peoples living in urban areas, most continue to practice cultural traditions and have a strong sense of cultural identity.²

Indigenous Languages

41% of Indigenous adults (15 years or older) in Thunder Bay speak an Indigenous language.

2% of Indigenous adults in Thunder Bay speak multiple Indigenous languages:

The language most commonly used at home by Indigenous adults was English:

Policy Implications

TRC Call to Action 14: We call upon the federal government to provide sufficient funds for Indigenous-language revitalization and preservation. The preservation, revitalization, and strengthening of Indigenous languages and cultures are best managed by Indigenous people and communities. Funding for Indigenous language initiatives must reflect the diversity of Indigenous languages.

TRC Call to Action⁴ 48: We call upon the church parties to the Settlement Agreement, and all other faith groups and interfaith social justice groups in Canada to respect Indigenous Peoples' right to self-determination in spiritual matters, including the right to practice, develop, and teach their own spiritual and religious traditions, customs, and ceremonies, consistent with Article 12:1 of the United Nations Declaration on the Rights of Indigenous Peoples.

MMIWG Report Calls to Justice⁵ 2.5: We call upon all governments, in partnership with Indigenous Peoples, to create a permanent empowerment fund devoted to supporting Indigenous-led initiatives for Indigenous individuals, families, and communities to access cultural knowledge, as an important and strength-based way to support cultural rights and to uphold self-determined services. This empowerment fund should include the support of land-based educational programs that can assist in foundational cultural learning and awareness.

MMIWG Report Calls to Justice 7.5: We call upon governments, institutions, organizations, and essential and non-essential service providers to support and provide permanent and necessary resources for specialized intervention, healing and treatment programs, and services and initiatives offered in Indigenous languages.

Additional Recommendations: The City of Thunder Bay, provincial and federal policy makers work in partnership with urban Indigenous Peoples and organizations to:

- Fund an expansion of Indigenous language education programming for children and adults
- Expand the number and accessibility of dedicated safe spaces for the practice of ceremony and traditions
- Develop, fund, and implement an Indigenous language and cultural teacher/ knowledge keeper human resource strategy
- Further unpack and address barriers for Indigenous Peoples in the access of Indigenous language and cultural programming, services and supports
